RICHARD W. WIEKING
CLERK, U.S. DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

Lennis L. Roberson, ) Case No. C07-3498 CRB (PR) Plaintiff, ) PLAINTIFF'S OPPOSITION
v. ) TO DEFENDANTS MOTION
Jeanne Woodford, et al., ) FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT Defendant[s] )

Introduction

Defendants contend that since plaintiff's grooming standard violations were in 1998 -- plaintiff is ineligible for behavioral credits. September 22, 2000 the Religious Land Use Institutional Persons Act (RLUIPA) was signed into law by President William J. Clinton. The defendants were aware of the change in law, and put on notice by CDCR memorandum, but defendants elected not to follow federal law and impermissible burden plaintiff's free exercise of religion. The defendants chose to follow departmental regulation several years after they were aware that their actions and/or omissions were violating plaintiff's rights.

On February 15, 2006, plaintiff appeared before the Unit Classification Committee where his C-Status was removed effective January 17, 2006. Plaintiff's was removed from C-Status and claimed religious reasons before Director Dovey's February 27, 2006 memo addressed "to the Wardens of all CDCR institutions explaining the January 17 emergency regulation. (Defs.' Not. Mot. & Mot. Summ. J. 6:13)

Director Dovey instructed that any inmate who had been found guilty of an RVR based on grooming standards, and who violated the standard "based on previously stated religious beliefs" would receive full restoration of credit loss for violations occurring on or after September 22, 2000". (See

1      Defs.' Not. Mot. & Mot. Summ. J. 6:19-22) Plaintiff stated 2      his noncompliance with grooming standard/policy was based on 3      religious belief several times before Director Dovey's memo.
4      (See Decl. of L.L. Roberson A7(a), A7(b), A7(c), and A7(d); 5      Defs.' Not. Mot & Mot. Summ. J. 7:6-7)

6      Defendant's contend, "according to institutional policy, 7      credit restoration would be extended to inmates who received 8      disciplinary violations in or after September 22, 2000."
9      (Defs.' Not. & Mot. Summ. J. 7:14) Plaintiff can show by 10     declaration and supporting documents of inmates that received 11     disciplinary violation prior to September 22, 2000 and were 12     given credit restoration. (See Decl. of O.S. Brown, Decl. of 13     P.D. Shotwell, and Decl. of A. Alto.)

14     Plaintiff can show that defendants enforced grooming 15     standard in violation of his rights under the First and 16     Fourteenth Amendments and RLUIPA. Therefore, defendants are 17     not entitled to judgment as a matter of law, and defendants 18     Notice and Motion for Summary Judgment should be denied.

I.

1 PLAINTIFF'S REQUEST FOR INJUNCTIVE RELIEF IS NOT MOOT.
2 DEFENDANT'S ARE NOT ENTITLED TO SUMMARY JUDGMENT.

3 Defendants assert that plaintiff's grooming policy
4 claim[s] are moot. Defs. Not. Mot. & Mot. Summ. J. (8: 5 12-28) However, there is a live controversy.

6 Plaintiff seeks money damages in addition to other 7 relief -- plaintiff is entitled to and may still recover
8 these damages from the Defendants.

9 Although, it may appear that the plaintiff may no longer
10 be affected by the CDCR recently implemented new regulations
11 and other amended regulation[s] related to plaintiff's 12 ability to grow facial hair (free exercise) in accordance 13 to his faith Al-Islam and the amendment[s] related to Cal.
14 Code Regs. tit. 15 §3060-62 (2006). This does not render 15 plaintiff's action moot. Plaintiff's claims may entitle 16 him to an award of nominal damages. The Court made this 17 clear when a plaintiff's pursuit of nominal damages provides 18 a sufficiently concrete interest in the outcome of the 19 litigation to confer standing to pursue declaratory relief 20 and thereby prevents mootness. "[A]s long as the parties 21 have a concrete interest, however small, in the outcome 22 of the litigation, the case is not moot." See Yniguez v.
23 State, 975 F.2d 646 (9th Cir 1992) The case or controversy 24 is satisfied through all stages of federal judicial 25 proceedings and mandates that parties continue to have 26 personal stake in the outcome of a lawsuit throughout the 27 litigation U.S.C.A. 28 2254 exception to mootness doctrine 28 applies only in exceptional situations, where the following

1 two circumstances are simultaneously present: (1) Challenged action 2 is in its duration too short to fully litigated prior to cessation 3 or expiration, and (2) There is a reasonable expectation that the same 4 complaining party will be subject to the same action again. An 5 incarcerated convict's (or a parolee's) challenge to conviction always 6 satisfies the case-or-controversy requirement because the incarceration 7 (or the restriction imposed by the terms of parole) constitutes a 8 concrete injury caused by the conviction's invalidation. See Spencer 9 v. Kemoa, 118 S.Ct 978 (1998) id. 118 S.Ct 980.

10 Plaintiff suffered the initial Rule Violation Reports, and the 11 complete gambit of disciplinary measures -- which included C-Status 12 and loss of privileges. For years Plaintiff has been targeted with 13 unwarranted cell moves, Loss of Time Credit for every day spent on 14 C-Status, an Administrative Segregation (AD-Seg) placement, Housed 15 at CTF-North a higher Custody level Facility (which amounts to an 16 adverse transfer) in an effort to coerce plaintiff into modifying and/or 17 abandoning essential precept and tenants of his religious beliefs "puts 18 the same kind of burden upon the free exercise of religion as would 19 a fine imposed against plaintiff." Warsoldier v. Woodford, 418 F.3d 20 (9th Cir. 2005) id 418 F.3d 1001 [T]he loss of first Amendment 21 freedoms for even minimal period of time, unquestionably constitutes 22 irreparable injury" for purpose of the issuance of preliminary 23 injunction." Elrod v. Burns, 427 U.S. 347, 373. Therefore defendants 24 motion for Summary Judgment should be denied.

1 B. RLUIPA DOES HAVE RETROACTIVE EFFECT.

2 Plaintiff believes that defendants' current stand on 3 RLUIPA being silent on whether it applies retroactively.
4 Defs. Not. Mot. & Mot. Summ. J. at (11: 6-15) is incorrect.

5 In U.S. v. U. Baldo - Figueroa 347 F.3d 718 (9th Cir 6 2003) the Court focuses on three primary factors in 7 determining whether the purpose of a retroactive statute 8 comports with due process. First, the Court looks to 9 whether Congress applied a law retroactively to remedy a 10 conflict in previous legislation. Second, the Courts
11 examines whether Congress provided a specific rationale 12 for applying the statute retroactively because "[T]he 13 retrospective aspects of legislation as well as the 14 prospective aspects must meet the test of due process, and 15 justification for the latter may not suffice for the former."
16 at id 728. Finally, the Court considers the severity of 17 the consequences of the retroactive legislation, including 18 the effect of the legislation on a party's interest in fair 19 notice and repose.

20 When a statute's Plain Meaning is clear, turns 21 legislative history are unnecessary to construe statute;
22 but where a statutes yields to more than one reasonable 23 interpretation, the Court of Appeals turns to legislative 24 history, looking to the entire statutory scheme" Oliver 25 v. Keller 289 F.3d 623 (9th Cir 2002) RLUIPA is founded on 26 plain meaning. See Minte v. Roman Catholic Bishop or 27 Springfield 434 F.Supp 2d 309, 318 (D. Mass 2006) When 28 a Statute does not define a term in accordance with its

1 "ordinary" contemporary, common meaning San Jose Christian
2 College City of Morgan Hill 360 F.3d 1024, 1034 (9th Cir
3 2004); Harper v. Poway Unified School Dist. 445 F3d 1166
4 (9th Cir 2006).

5 Defendants seek to rewrite RLUIPA by modifying the 6 intent of Congress. RLUIPA is supported by Supreme Court
7 decisions in Employment Division v. Smith, 494 U.S. 872
8 (1990); City of Bourne v. Flores, 521 U.S. 504 (1997), 9 mandates a stricter standard or review for person regulations 10 that burdens the free exercise of religion than the 11 reasonableness standard under Turner. See Warsoldier v.
12 Woodford, 418 F.3d 989, 994 (9th Cir 2005). The Supreme 13 Court upheld the Constitutionality of RLUIPA in Cutter v.
14 Wilkinson, 544 U.S. 709, 721 (2005).

15 The application of RLUIPA Constitutionality depends 16 on Congress' power to enforce by appropriate legislation, 17 the provisions of the U.S. Constitution's Fourteenth 18 Amendment. RULIPA will be deemed Constitutional only if 19 there is "a congruence and proportionality between the injury 20 to be prevented or remedied and the means adopted to that 21 end" City of Boern, 521 U.S. at 520 (1997), Guru Nanak Sikh 22 v. County of Sutter, No 03-17343 D.C. No. CV-02-10128, 10133.
23 At the end of the day, RLUIPA triggers stricter scrutiny 24 under the First Amendment a governmental burden must have to 25 coerce individuals into acting contrary to their religious 26 beliefs Thomas v. Rev Bd. Ind. Employment 450 U.S. 707,
27 717-18 (1981) Also See Lyng v. Nw. Indian Cemetery Protective 28

1       Association 485 U.S. 439-450-51 (1988), Midrash Sephardi
2       Inc. v. Town of Surfside, 366 F.3d 1214, 1227 (11th Cir
3       2004) Thus RLUIPA does apply to plaintiff's 14th Amendment 4       allegation as well as applying to plaintiff's grooming 5       violations.

6       Finally, in the context of plaintiff's Free Exercise of 7       Religion Claim (Compl. at 24):

8       Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free
9       exercise by punishing plaintiff for exercising religion by 10       placing plaintiff in Ad-Seg (Ad-Seg and ASU are used 11       interchangeably for "Administrative Segregation Unit"). See 12       Compl. 13:5-27 to 14:1-4. See Decl. L.L. Roberson A7; Jd. Not.E

13       Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free
14       exercise of religion by punishing him for free exercise of 15       religion by restricting plaintiff to the following but not 16       limited to: one-fourth of the maximum monthly canteen draw.
17       See Compl. 14:11-16 See Decl. A7.

18       Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free
19       exercise of religion by punishing him for free exercise of 20       religion by restricting plaintiff to telephone calls on 21       an emergency basis only. See 14:17 of Compl. See Decl. A7.

22       Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free
23       exercise of religion by punishing him for free exercise of 24       religion by limiting plaintiff's exercise yard access, 25       approximately 10 hours a week. See 14:18 of Compl.; Decl. A7.

26       Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free
27       exercise of religion by punishing him for free exercise of 28       religion by restricting plaintiff to no access to any other

1 recreational or entertainment activities. See Compl. 14:19

2 Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free exercise of 3 religion by punishing him for free exercise by restricting plaintiff
4 to no personal property packages which includes, but is not limited
5 to televisions, CD-players, typewriters and etc. See Compl. 14:21, 6 Jd. Not. Ex. F, Decl. L.L. Roberson Ex. A7.

7 Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free exercise of 8 religion by punishing him for free exercise of religion by denying 9 plaintiff access to law library. See Compl. 15:1-5

10 Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free exercising of 11 religion by punishing him for free exercise of religion by forcing 12 plaintiff to choose between access to law library and exercise yard.
13 See Compl. 15:21-23

14 Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free exercise of 15 religion by punishing him for free exercise of religion by forcing 16 plaintiff to move to C-status wing as punishment for exercising religious 17 belief. See Compl. 17:15-26

18 Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free exercise of 19 religion by punishing him for free exercise of religion by stymieing 20 and/or denying plaintiff access to the appeal process. See Compl. 20:26-21 21:1-5.

22 Defendants substantially burdened plaintiff's free exercise of 23 religion by punishing him for free exercise of religion by denying 24 plaintiff retroactive time credits. See Compl. 22:19 - 23:1-7; Decl. of 25 E.W. Williams Ex. A, Decl. O.S. Brown Ex. A1, Decl. P.D. Shotwell Ex. A2, 26 Decl. A. Alto Ex. A3, Decl. L.L. Roberson Ex. A7

1 "The Free Exercise Clause of the First Amendment of 2 the U.S. Constitution provides the Congress shall make no
3 law prohibiting the free exercise" of religion. The Clause 4 prohibits the government from Compel[ling] affirmation of 5 religious belief, punish[ing] the expression of religion
6 doctrines it believes to be false, impos[ing] special 7 disabilities on the basis of religious views or religious 8 status or lend[ing] its power to one or the other side in 9 controversies over religious authority or dogma. Employment 10 Div. Dept. of Human Res. of Oregon v. Smith 494 U.S. 872,
11 877, 110 S.Ct 1595, 108 L.Ed. 2d 876 (1990), Harper v. Poway
12 Unified Sch. Dist. 445, F.3d 1166, 1186 (9th Cir 2006)

13 Lyng v. NW. Indian Cementery Protective Association
14 485 U.S. 439, 450-51 (1988) explainning that to trigger 15 strict scrutiny under the First Amendment a governmental 16 burden must have "a tendency to coerce individuals into 17 acting contrary to their religious belief." These cases 18 demonstrate that a substantial burden must place more than 19 an inconvenience on religious exercise. See Midrash Sephardi
20 Inc. v. Town of Surfside 366 F.3d 1227 (11th Cir 2004)

21 Therefore Defendants' Motion for Summary Judgment should 22 be denied.

1           II Plaintiff Does Present Evidence
2           Disputing Material Facts

3           Defendants contend that plaintiff has no evidence that 4           prison officials knew at either California State Prison (CSP)
5           Corcoran or Correctional Training Facility (CTF) Soledad, 6           that plaintiff was a practicing Muslim and could not comply 7           with grooming policy/regulations based on his religious 8           beliefs. (Defs Not Mot and Mot Summ J. 10:1-8) Before a 9           prison regulation alleged that infringe constitutional rights 10          are judged under a reasonableness test less restrictive 11          than that ordinarily applied to alleged infringements of 12          fundamental Constitutional rights. See O'Lone v. Shabazz
13          U.S. 342, 349; 107 S.Ct 201; 96 L.Ed 2.d 282 (1997) Turner
14          v. Safley, 842 U.S. 78, 98; 107 S.Ct 2254; 96 L.Ed 2.d 64
15          (1997).

16          There are Four (4) factors to be considered in 17          determining whether a regulation is reasonably related to 18          legitimate penological. Plaintiff arrived at CTF Soledad 19          February 3, 1999 and until June 9, 2004 plaintiff was denied 20          all religious artifacts, Jummuah (congregational Prayer 21          services), religious diet, and the wearing of his beard
22          for religious reasons. (See Ex. A5 Decl. of R. Laudermill)
23          The Court must ascertain whether there are "ready 24          alternative" available to the regulations.

1 (1) Whether the regulation or practice has a logical
2 connection to the penological interest used to justify it,
3 (2) whether there are other means of exercising the right
4 being restricted, (3) whether the exercise of the prisoner's
5 right will have an adverse effect on guards or other
6 prisoners, and (4) whether there are other alternatives
7 open to the prison administration to accommodate the right
8 with a minimal cost or burden". See Turner v. Safley, 842
9 U.S. 78, 89, 107 S.Ct 2254, 96 L.Ed 2.d 64 (1987).

10 Therefore Defendants are not entitled to summary
11 judgment and defendants' motion for summary judgment should 12 be denied.

Plaintiff Sets Forth Facts
Showing a Genuine Issue

To defeat Summary judgment Plaintiff "must set forth specific facts showing that there is a genuine issue". (See Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(e) Plaintiff presents declarations on specific facts that support his allegations of injury by affidavit. (See Hubbard v. 7-Eleven Inc., 433 F.Supp 2d 1134, 1141 (S.D. Cal 2006)

Secondly, defendants assert after Plaintiff transfers to CTF Soledad the Initial Classification Committee reviewed plaintiff's prison files and asked plaintiff if he would comply with grooming regulations. (St. Facts 10) Plaintiff simply responded "no". (id) The disciplinary history reviewed by the Committee did not contain any indication that plaintiff violated grooming policies based on his religious beliefs. (id 6-9, 17) Def's Not. Mot. & Summ. J. 8:25) (See Plaintiff's Decl. A7, A7(a) A7(b)

Thirdly, defendants contend that plaintiff first requested that his classification be adjusted in August 2005 (See Plaintiff's Decl. A7, A7(a) A7(b) and A7(d) (pg. 3 Ex. H attached to appeal, A. Describe Problem Continued: states, "Appellate has not refused assignment. The decision regarding RLUIPA's constitutionality means appellate has not violated a regulation that warrants Work Group-C placement. (See Comp. Ex. H pg. 3) The only reason Plaintiff was removed from Work Group-C was due to plaintiff's religious conviction to Al-Islam. The wearing of beards for the Muslim is a tenant that the defendants were aware of. (See Mayweather v. Terhune, 314 F.3d 1062 (9th Cir 2002)

1       Mayweather v. Newland 328 F.Supp 2.d 1086 (E.D. Cal 2004)

2       and (Warsoldier v. Woodford 418 F.3d 989 (9th Cir 2005)).

3           Work Group-C (Work Group-C and C-Status are used 4       interchangeably) was amended because RLUIPA and subsequent 5       Court rulings related to exemptions to the grooming policy
6       for religious reasons. CDCR's grooming policy made no
7       exceptions for plaintiff's religious reasons which plaintiff 8       is entitled. In fact plaintiff does present evidence, that 9       prison officials were aware they had and were violating 10      plaintiff's rights. (See Judicial Notice Exhibit C)

11           There are factors to consider if plaintiff had been 12      denied Free Exercise of his religion. These Four factors 13      are to be considered in determining whether a regulation 14      is reasonably related to legitimate penological interest.

15      (1) Whether the regulation or practice has a logical
16      connection to the penological interest used to justify it,
17      (2) whether there are other means of exercising the right
18      being restricted, (3) whether the exercise of the prisoner's
19      right will have an adverse effect on guards or other
20      prisoners, and (4) whether there are other alternatives
21      open to the prison administration to accommodate the right
22      with a minimal cost or burden". See Turner v. Safley, 842
23      U.S. 78, 89, 107 S.Ct 2254, 96 L.Ed 2.d 64 (1987).

24           Upon plaintiff's arrival at CTF Central February 3, 25      1999 to June 2004 plaintiff was denied all religious 26      expression which includes but not limited to religious 27      artifacts, Jummah Prayer, religious diet, and my beard for

1 religious reasons. (See Declaration of R. Laudermill
 2 attached hereto as Exhibit A5)

3 The Court must ascertain whether there are "ready
 4 alternatives" available to the regulations.

5 III. The Equal Protection Clause

6 Merits

7 The Equal Protection Clause ensures that prison
 8 officials can not discriminate against particular religion.
 9 Freeman, 125 F.3d at 737. Plaintiff has the Burden to show 10 that officials intentionally acted in a discriminatory manner 11 to support a §1983 claim. FDIC v. Henderson, 940 F.3d 465, 12 471 (9th Cir 1991); Sischo-Nownejad v. Merced Community
 13 College Dist., 934 F.2d 1104, 1112 (9th Cir 1991) (stating 14 that discriminatory intent can sometimes be inferred by the 15 mere fact of different treatment). The Ninth Circuit in 16 Sischo-Nownejad stated:

17 *The evidence may be either direct or circumstantial, and 18 the amount that must be produced in order to create a 19 prima facie case is "very little." Normally, when such 20 evidence has been introduced, a court should not grant 21 summary judgment to the defendant on any ground relating 22 to the merits. Even if the defendant articulates a 23 legitimate, nondiscriminatory reason for the challenged...
 24 decision, thus shifting the burden to the plaintiff to 25 prove that the articulated reason is pretextual, summary 26 judgment is normally inappropriate. When a plaintiff has 27 established a prima facie inference of disparate treatment 28 through direct or circumstantial evidence of discriminatory intent, he will necessarily have raised a genuine issue of material fact with respect to the legitimacy or bona fides of the [defendant's] articulated reason for its...decision. Specifically, in evaluating whether the defendant's articulated reason is pretextual, the trier of fact must at a minimum, consider the same evidence that the plaintiff introduced to establish her prima facie case.*

1 934 F.2d at 1110 (internal quotation marks and citations
2 omitted).

3 Plaintiff produces evidence that creates a prima facie
4 case. (1) I was placed on Work/Privilege Group C (C-Status)
5 for wearing my beard for religious reasons and being deprived 6 of privileges (special purchases, telephone use, etc...)
7 and good time credits, while general population inmates 8 were allow good time credits and a full panoply of privilege.

9 See Judicial Notice Exhibit E, and Exhibit F. See 10 Declarations A, A1, A3, A4 and A7.

11 The plaintiff's deprivations were more than an 12 inconvenience all showing they reached the point of 13 Constitutional violations. See May v. Baldwin, 109 F.3d 14 557, 565-66 (9th Cir 1997) ("evidence of non-movant is to 15 be believed and all reasonable inferences are to be drawn 16 in his favor); Liberty v. Lobby, 477 U.S. at 255 (1986)

17 As aforementioned plaintiff was denied all religious 18 expression from February 3. 1999 through 2002. Subsequently, 19 "relevant inquiry under this factor is not whether the inmate 20 has an alternative means of engaging in the particular 21 religious practice that he or she claims is being affected; 22 rather, we are to determine whether the inmates have been 23 denied all means of religious expression." See Ward, F.3d 24 at 877; See also Johnson v. Moore, 948 F.2d 517, 520 (9th 25 Cir 1991). (See Laudermill Declaration at Exhibit A5)

26
27
28

1 Plaintiff has established a prima facie inference of 2 disparate treatment by the defendants. The disparate 3 treatment of the plaintiff by the defendants directly had 4 a discriminatory intent. What is more important is plaintiff 5 highlights a genuine issue of material fact with respect to 6 articulating reasons for disparate treatment for wearing 7 his beard for religious reasons, by defendants.

8 Therefore Defendants are not entitled to summary
9 judgment and defendants' notice and motion for summary 10 judgment should be denied.

1           IV. Plaintiff Did Allege He Was Wrongfully
2           Disciplined At Administrative Level

3           Defendants overview of plaintiff's complaint is out
4           of step with the core value of its facts. First, defendants' 5           misplace their argument, in regard to, defendants convoluting
6           plaintiff's Chronological facts (Compl. 10:16-19) defendants
7           refer to these facts at Compl. 6 and 7. Secondly, defendants 8           highlight that "Plaintiff filed an inmate appeal challenging 9           one out of the four grooming violations he received in 10           December (1988) (Id 8.) in that appeal, plaintiff never 11           asserted that his faith mandated that he not shave, and 12           that he should not be disciplined for that reason. (Defs.' 13           Not. Mot. & Mot. Summ J. 11:18-25) The Court should take 14           notice that defendants either oversighted this contention 15           or groped through the Complaint. This contention is at 16           plaintiff's complaint -- Compl. at 10-11. Most importantly 17           plaintiff's allegations do not reflect that he is contending 18           any of Decembers four Rule Violation Reports (RVRs), but 19           only attempted to show the chronology of the factual history 20           of events and deprivation he suffered as a result of his 21           refusal to comply with the grooming policy for religious 22           reasons. (See L.L. Roberson Decl. Ex A7) "42 U.S.C.
23           1997e(a). The PLRA does not require the plaintiff to 24
25
26
27
28

1 affirmative plead and prove exhaustion, but rather the PLRA's 2 exhaustion requirement is an affirmative defense that must 3 be raised by the defendant. Jones v. Bock, 127 S.Ct 910,
4 919 (2007); Wyatt v. Terhune, 315 F.3d 1108, 1117 (9th Cir 5 2003) At this juncture defendants do not brief in the 6 response nor do they seriously dispute any form of an 7 affirmative defense in other context. Defendants only argue 8 a prisoner may not sue under RLUIPA without exhausting 9 administrative remedies, plaintiff does not allege that 10 prison officials wrongfully disciplined him for shaving
11 his beard nor could he, because he never pursued 12 administrative remedies for the claim. (Def Not Mot & Mot 13 Summ J.) at 12:1-16)

14 In order to determine whether an inmate appeal provides 15 the necessary factual basis for a subsequent lawsuit, "the 16 Court must determine whether a reasonable investigation
17 of the [inmate appeal] would have uncovered the allegations
18 now before it" See Tillis v. Lamarque, 2006 LW 644876 *7 19 (N.Cal 2006). Here the exhausted inmate appeal stated that 20 plaintiff inmate appeal No. CTF-06-01218 entitled plaintiff
21 to retroactive credit restoration for Grooming Standard
22 violation for CDC Form 115 Rules Violation Report (RVR)
23 plaintiff received in 1998. The appellate request to be 24 granted Work Group/Privilege Group (PG/WG) A-1/A status 25 retroactive to January 2006. (See Compl. Ex. J page 32 and 26 K page 12 for verification of exhaustion and investigation 27 of CDC-602 Administrative Appeal).

28

1       Here, the plaintiff would like to bring to the attention
2 of the Court the defendants' attempt to confuse and/or 3 mislead the Court with the introduction of incomplete and/or 4 documents clearly misrepresentative of the facts. The 5 defendants' contend on the director's Level that plaintiff
6 requested, "Work Group/Privilege Group (WG/PG) A-1/A status
7 retroactive to January 16 2006." (See Compl. Ex. K page 8 12) Defendants' claim conflicts with plaintiff's actual 9 request of September 22, 2000. (See Compl. Ex. K pages 1 10 and 3.) Plaintiff additionally requested retroactive time
11 credit to January 1999. (See Compl. Ex. K page 1.) At no
12 time has plaintiff requested retroactive credits to January 13 16, 2006 as is stated by defendants.

14       Plaintiff states in administrative appeals "The decision 15 regarding RLUIPA's constitutionality means appellate has 16 not violated a regulation... (See Compl. Ex H pg. 3).
17 Additionally plaintiff states, "imposes punitive and/or 18 disciplinary measure without due process of law" (See Ex. K 19 pg. 3.). For the above stated reasons Defendants' Notice 20 and Motion for Summary Judgment should be denied.

21

23

24

25

26

27

28

1 Defendants contend that they are entitled to qualified
2 immunity because (1) Plaintiff has failed to show that a
3 constitutional right was violated by Defendants, and (2) it 4 would not have been clear to a reasonable official that 5 their conduct was unlawful in the situation confronted.

6 V. Legal Standard

7 1. Qualified Immunity

8 The defense of qualified immunity protects "government 9 officials...from liability for civil damages insofar as 10 their conduct does not violate clearly established statutory 11 or constitutional rights of which a reasonable person would 12 have known." Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982).

13 The rule of qualified immunity "provides ample protection 14 to all but the plainly incompetent or those who knowingly 15 violate the law;" defendants can have a reasonable, but 16 mistaken, belief about the facts or about what the law
17 requires in any given situation. Saucier v. Katz, 533 U.S.
18 194, 202 (2001) (quoting Malley v. Briggs, 475 U.S. 335, 19 341 (1986). "Therefore, regardless of whether the 20 constitutional violation occurred, the [official] should 21 prevail if the right asserted by plaintiff was not clearly 22 established or the [official] could have reasonably believed 23 that his particular conduct was lawful. "Romero v. Kitsap 24 County, 931 F.2d 624, 627 (9th Cir 1991).

25 A court considering a claim of qualified immunity must 26 first determine whether the plaintiff has alleged the 27 deprivation of an actual constitutional right, then proceed
28 to determine if the right was "clearly established. "Wilson

1 v. Layne, 526 U.S. 603 (1999); Conn v. Gabbert, 526 U.S.
2 286, 290 (1999). The threshold question must be: Taken 3 in the light most favorable to the party asserting the 4 injury, do the facts alleged show the officer's conduct
5 violated a constitutional right. Saucier, 533 U.S. at 201; 6 see Martin v. City of Oceanside, 360 F.3d 1078, 1082 (9th 7 Cir 2004) (in performing the initial injury, court is 8 obligated to accept plaintiff's facts as alleged, but not 9 necessarily his application of law to the facts; the issue 10 is not whether a claim is stated for a violation of 11 plaintiff's constitutional rights, but rather whether the 12 defendants actually violated a constitutional right.

13 "If no constitutional right would have been violated
14 were the allegations established, there is no necessity 15 for further inquiries concerning qualified immunity."
16 Saucier, 533 U.S. at 201. On the other hand, if a violation 17 could be made out on the allegations, the next sequential 18 step is to ask whether the right was clearly established.
19 This inquiry must be undertaken in light of the specific 20 context of the case, not as a broad general proposition.
21 The relevant, dispositive inquiry in determining whether 22 a right is clearly established is whether it would be clear 23 to a reasonable officer that his conduct was unlawful to 24 the situation he confronted. If the law did not put the 25 officer on notice that his conduct would be clearly unlawful, 26 Summary judgment based on qualified immunity is appropriate.

27
28

1       Even if the violated right is clearly established 2 qualified immunity shields an officer from suit when he 3 makes a decision that, even if constitutionally deficient,
4 reasonably misapprehends the law governing the circumstances 5 he confronted. Brossean v. Haugen, 543 U.S. 194, 198 (2004);
6 Saucier, 533 U.S. at 205-06. If "the officer's mistake
7 as to what the law requires is reasonable...the officer 8 is entitled to the immunity defense." Plaintiff bears the 9 burden -- the law clearly establishes Davis v. Schere, 468
10 U.S. 183, 197 (1984). Plaintiff has outlined how defendants 11 unreasonably limited his Free Exercise of religious rights.
12 (See Judicial Ex. A, Ex. C, Ex. E, Ex. F, and Ex. G)

13       Defendants were placed on notice by CDC memo that 14 clearly established they were aware of plaintiff's 15 Constitutional rights, and their actions were violating 16 those rights. (2) Defendants know that inmates at California 17 State Prison, Solano (Solano) were protected from progressive 18 disciplinary action for wearing their beards for religious 19 reasons. "[A] complete denial of the ability to observe 20 a religious practice is not required to demonstrate an 21 infringement" of a prisoner's right to Free Exercise" 183
22 F.3d at 1213. As the Tenth Circuit stated in Makin.

23       The Equal Protection Clause requires the state to treat
24 all similarly situated people equally. (See City of Cleburne 25 v. Cleburne Living Center, 473 U.S. 432, 439 (1985). The 26 Equal Protection Clause entitles each prisoner to, "a 27 reasonable opportunity of pursuing his faith comparable to 28

1 the opportunity afforded fellow prisoners who adhere to 2 conventional religious precepts." Cruz, 405 U.S. at 322.
3 Defendants can not show rational basis why they allowed 4 inmates to wear their beards for religious reasons at Solano, 5 but denied plaintiff to wear his beard for religious reasons.
6 In the constructs of disparate treatment inmates at Solano 7 were absolutely free from disciplinary action by the same
8 agency CDCR and/or CDCR policy makers which shows (1)
9 Defendants knew plaintiff's beard was for religious purposes
10 (2) Denial of plaintiff to wear beard for religious purposes
11 as well as the loss of privileges is an equal protection 12 analysis to establish defendants did not have a rational 13 basis for plaintiff's disparate treatment.

14 VI. The Establishment Clause Claims

15 Plaintiff's Establishment Clause claim paves the way to 16 his liberties under the First Amendment and violates the 17 Fourteenth Amendment. Plaintiff provides the Court evidence 18 of the defendants' disregard for plaintiff's rights, and 19 defendants' flagrant mistreatment of plaintiff resulting from 20 the Prison's grooming policy. Plaintiff presents affidavits, 21 declarations: supporting his allegations, all made on 22 personal knowledge, which is in the frame work of Federal 23 Rule of Civil Procedure 56(e)(1).

24 Defendants underscore the fact that plaintiff had been 25 subject to the level of substantial burden prohibited by 26 RLUIPA even after they received memorandum[s] from the CDCR 27 Departmental heads. Plaintiff's privilege losses are nearly 28

1 identical to Warsoldier (1) lost opportunity for assignment
2 duties; (2) Placed in administrative segregation from mail
3 population recreation yard; (3) Monthly draw at the prison
4 store reduced from $180.00 to $45.00, and phone access 5 prohibited; (4) Prohibited from making special purchases.

6 (See Warsoldier v. Woodford, 418 F.3d 989, 992 (9th Cir)

7 VII. Qualified Immunity Standard

8 The qualified immunity standard requires a two-step 9 analysis (1) Was the law governing the official's conduct
10 clearly established? (2) Under that law, could a reasonable 11 officer have believed the conduct was lawful? At the time 12 and period 2000 - 2005 it had been well established that 13 prisoners retained the protection of the Free Exercise 14 clause. (See O'Lone v. Estate of Shabazz, 482 U.S. 342, 15 348; 107 S.Ct 2400, 2404; 96 L.Ed 282 (1987)

16 More importantly it may be appropriate for the trier of 17 fact to consider information possessed by prison officials at 18 the time of alleged violations. Plaintiff contended 19 throughout the administrative grievance process and in this 20 litigation that he suffered as a result of disciplinary 21 actions because of religious persecution. See Memo Judicial 22 Notice placing in Administrative Segregation, and defendants
23 were aware inmates housed in Solano were allowed to wear 24 their beards for religious purposes without suffering 25 irreparable harm such as the case here before the court.

26 Plaintiff has alleged that defendants failed to grant 27 his inmate appeals and continue to deny plaintiff access to

28

1 Plaintiff has alleged that defendants failed to grant
2 his inmate appeals and continued to deny plaintiff access to 3 prison assignment and time credit earning status; denied 4 general population yard access; denied special purchase 5 (items such as but, not limited to personal electronic 6 appliances, personal footwear, and personal clothing); 7 restricted telephone use to emergency basis -- to be 8 determined by staff; restricted canteen draw to one quarter
9 the monthly limit. (See Compl. at 14:11-22) In the section 10 identifying each defendant in the complaint, plaintiff 11 specifies the role of each defendant in implementing 12 religious policies at CTF. (See Compl. at 5:11 - 9:20)
13 Plaintiff contends that the Court will find that plaintiff
14 has alleged that in denying his appeals -- the prison 15 officials know of and participated in the deprivation of 16 his rights to Free Exercise of his religion. (See Taylor, 17 880 F.2d at 11045; Hamilton, 981 F.2d at 1067)

18 Conclusion

19 Plaintiff does present a dispute in a genuine issue of 20 fact for trial. Therefore defendants' request that this 21 Court's grant of judgment in the defendants' favor should be 22 denied.
